Happy holidays!

As you unwrap this letter on this joyous day, know that it carries with it the warmth and love of the season. In lieu of a traditional gift, a donation has been made in your name to Stratford Ecological Center in Delaware, Ohio. Your present is a contribution to a cause that goes beyond the material, offering a gift to nature, education, and the community.

Stratford, an educational farm and nature preserve, is dedicated to creating a sanctuary where people of all ages can connect with nature, where their food comes from and each other. From sustainable farming to immersive educational programs, your gift supports an environment that nurtures both the earth and the minds of those who explore it.

Take a moment to imagine the impact your present has: children learning about where their food comes from, families reconnecting with nature, and communities coming together to appreciate and preserve the world around us.

Your holiday has become a celebration of giving, not just to you, but to something much larger than any individual. It's a gesture of love that echoes through the trees, the fields, and the hearts of those who experience the beauty of this educational farm and nature preserve.

As you revel in the holiday spirit, remember that your presence is a present, and this year, your name is forever associated with a place that fosters growth, curiosity, and a deeper understanding of the world.

Wishing you a holiday season filled with joy, love, and the knowledge that your heartwarming gift will continue to make a difference.

With heartfelt gratitude,

Stratford Ecological Center
